Drisana Deborah Jack

Boundaries

Should the ties that bind
Cut off the breath that gives us
Peace while birth wrongs
And rights come back to haunt us
To roost

Should the ties that bind betray
The heart the purity of agape with viral strains
At the rings that bind us
(worn on the awkward hand)

Should the ties that bind