

Hyacinth Hall

HEARTLAND

In strange lands meager thoughts meander
through black carnivals in dreams within dreams.
On distant seas ships catching gentle winds declare hope's weightless feathers, journey's friends.

But new seas, new places
always lead back home-
with its sterile spaces
of hard rock faces-
where bare earth exposes
in every interstice its hunger for less than the blazing heat from a sun's self-immolation
and for more than a glimmer from dead stars.

Calabash

A JOURNAL OF CARIBBEAN ARTS AND LETTERS

Volume 5, Number 1 / Summer-Fall 2008

Information about this work:

HEARTLAND

By: Hyacinth Hall

Start Page: 34

URL: <http://www.nyu.edu/calabash/vol5no1/0501034.pdf>

Calabash: A Journal of Caribbean Arts and Letters is an international literary journal dedicated to publishing works encompassing, but not limited to, the Anglophone, Francophone, Hispanophone and Dutch-speaking Caribbean. The Journal is especially dedicated to presenting the arts and letters of those communities that have long been under-represented within the creative discourse of the region, among them: Aruba and the Netherlands Antilles, Maroon societies, and the Asian and Amerindian societies of the region. Calabash has a strong visual arts component.

Calabash is published by New York University. Please contact the publisher for further permissions regarding the use of this work. Publisher information may be obtained at: http://www.nyu.edu/calabash/about.html

Calabash: A Journal of Caribbean Arts and Letters
© 2008 New York University