IMPORTANT:
- This course includes regular excursions, a few of which (marked ‘Long Excursion’) may run up to 30 minutes longer than regular class time.
- You are therefore advised not to enrol for this course if you have another class immediately before or after it.
- The maximum number of students for the class is 15.

Prerequisites
- It is desirable to have completed at least one art history survey course. This is not a requirement, but it is an advantage to have some background in the humanities and you should be prepared for a course which depends on your skills of observation, description and analysis, where attention to detail goes hand in hand with the discussion of broader concepts and theories.
- It is assumed that students who take this course are curious and motivated to explore the place where they are studying (above all the city of Prague, its buildings and art collections), which requires a commitment beyond class time. You should be ready to take some initiative in discovering and selecting your own topics for analysis in assignments.
- Tolerance of all kinds of weather conditions on field trips.
- Commitment to reading required texts.

Course Description
This course presents a survey of art and architecture in Prague and its environs – from the Middle Ages to the modern era – with an emphasis on key periods in Czech history, and placed within the context of the main periods and movements of Western art history.

The course is rooted in a discussion of the city of Prague, and students are encouraged through excursions and assignments to become acquainted with the city’s architecture, monuments and urban design.

Students learn to analyse formal aspects of art and architectural styles and are encouraged to investigate their sources and theoretical foundations.

Emphasis is given to the historical and cultural context of art styles and movements. We also look at art patronage in some key periods of Czech history to see how this reflects political, cultural and ideological change.

Classroom lectures are combined with regular field trips to examine works of art and architecture at first hand. These include architectural walking tours and visits to temporary exhibitions as well as the city's major art galleries.

Learning Goals
Desired outcomes:-
- A broad understanding of Czech history.
- An understanding of key periods in the history of Czech art and of the city of Prague.
- An understanding of the architectural and urbanistic evolution of the city of Prague.
• The ability to identify and explain art and architectural styles and relate them to their historical context.
• A broad understanding of how artistic production reflects political context and social change, exploring the theme of the patronage of art and architecture in key periods of Czech history.
• The development of skills in analysing and interpreting works of visual art.

Course Readings
• The course reader is in two parts: Part I (weeks 1-7), Part II (weeks 8-14).
• The reader includes all required and some recommended readings. Books from which readings are taken (as well as other recommended titles) are available on reserve in the NYU Prague library.
• A full bibliography is available on request.
