Class Details: East European Government and Politics
   Monday, 4.30-7.30PM
   Location to be confirmed.

Prerequisites: None

Class Description: This course is an introduction to the modern politics and government of Central and Eastern Europe in the twentieth century and present. We will examine five periods in the class: 1918-1939 (between World War I and World War II), 1939-1945 (the World War II), 1944-1948 (sovietization), 1949-1989 (communist era), after 1989. All these periods will be studied through a comparative approach. You will not only learn about the most important and contemporary political events but you will also learn to apply basic theories of political science to Central and East European political practice, or more precisely analyze them by means of these periods.

Teaching methodology: lectures and discussions.

Desired Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course, student should be able to:

1) understand the fundamentals of politics and government in East-Central Europe,
2) identify the main turning points in the development of politics and government in the 20th century and present,
3) evaluate particularities of politics and government in the region.

Assessment Components:

Class participation/attendance: 10%
Midterm exam: 25%
Book review: 25%
Final exam: 40%

Midterm exam will consist of an in-class test (with open questions).
Book review is due April 28, 2014. Students hand in a hard copy of their book review to the professor in class. Book review should be 3-5 pages long. Students are welcome to choose any relevant academic book on politics and government in East-Central Europe (available in the NYU library) but have to consult their choice with the instructor.
Final exam will consist of an in-class test (with open questions).

Students will receive additional information on all assessment components in the first class. Failure to submit or fulfill any required course component results in failure of the class. This must include number of pages of written work and time of oral presentations. Failure to submit or fulfill any required course component results in failure of the class.

Assessment Expectations:

Grade A: Excellent performance. The student has shown originality and a deep analytical understanding of the subject.
Grade B: Good work. The student has demonstrated high competence and an ability to answer the given set of problems with some insights.

Grade C: Passable work. The student made significant mistakes. Makes attempt to answer the problem but in a rather mechanical way and lacking individual insights.

Grade D: Poor work. Meets minimum requirements.

Grade F: Fails to meet the requirements.

Grading Policy

NYU Prague aims to have grading standards and results similar to those that prevail at Washington Square. At the College of Arts and Sciences, roughly 39% of all final grades are in the B+ to B- range, and 50% in the A/A- range.

We have therefore adopted the following grading guideline: in any non-Stern course, class teachers should try to ensure that no more than 50% of the class receives an A or A-.

A guideline is not a curve. A guideline is just that—it gives an ideal benchmark for the distribution of grades towards which we work.

Attendance Policy

Each unexcused absence will result in your final grade being reduced by 3%. Absences only for medical reasons will be excused. To obtain an excused absence, you are obliged to supply either a doctor’s note or corroboration of your illness by a member of the housing staff (either an RA or a Building Manager). Absences due to travel will not be excused.

Late Submission of Work

Late work will not be accepted.

According to the Liberal Studies Program Student Handbook, plagiarism is defined as follows:

Plagiarism Policy

Plagiarism is presenting someone else’s work as though it were one’s own. More specifically plagiarism is to present as one’s own a sequence of words quoted without quotation marks from another writer, a paraphrased passage from another writer’s work; facts or ideas gathered, organized and reported by someone else, orally and/or in writing. Since plagiarism is a matter of fact, not of the student’s intention, it is crucial that acknowledgment of the sources be accurate and complete. Even where there is no conscious intention to deceive, the failure to make appropriate acknowledgment constitutes plagiarism.

The College of Arts and Science’s Academic Handbook defines plagiarism similarly and also specifies the following:

“Presenting an oral report drawn without attribution from other sources (oral or written), writing a paragraph which, despite being in different words, expresses someone else’s idea without a reference to the source of the idea, or submitting essentially the same paper in two different courses (unless both teachers have given their permission in advance).

Receiving help on a take-home examination or quiz is also cheating – and so is giving that help – unless expressly permitted by the teacher (as in collaborative projects). While all this looks like a lot to remember, all you need to do is give credit where it is due, take credit only for original ideas, and ask your teacher or advisor when in doubt.”

“Penalties for plagiarism range from failure for a paper, failure for the course or dismissal from the university.” (Liberal Studies Program Student Handbook)
