NYU students gain hands-on experience in some of the world’s greatest financial and business centers. Here are just a few ways in which NYU students are acquiring real-world skills.

- Economics students have held internships at Deloitte; accounting students have interned at Ernst and Young, KPMG, and Price-waterhouseCoopers; finance students have worked at Barclay’s Capital, Credit Suisse, Goldman Sachs, and JPMorgan Chase; and marketing students have interned at Google, Ogilvy & Mather, and Procter & Gamble.

- Students majoring in sports management or hotel and tourism management complete 600 hours interning at sites that include the New York Marriott Marquis, the Mandarin Oriental, the New York Knicks, the National Basketball Association, Major League Baseball, and the Special Olympics.

- Last fall, approximately 500 NYU faculty, alumni, student entrepreneurs, and guest venture capitalists came together for the first-ever NYU Entrepreneurship Festival, two days of keynote speakers, roundtables, and panel discussions on the challenging and rewarding process of launching a new business. Speakers included the founders of Foursquare, Symbol Technologies, Audible, and XO group.

- Former President Bill Clinton presented a team of NYU Abu Dhabi students with a $1 million award when they won the Hult Global Case Challenge. The NYU group placed first in the “Energy” track with a plan to provide solar lighting to one million homes in Africa by 2013.
