This course will examine the intellectual origins, theoretical characterizations and historical and political evolution of fascist political movements in Europe. The course is comparative in method and scope concentrating on the common characteristics of all fascist regimes and neo-fascist political movements. Historically, the course will focus on the paradigmatic cases of the interwar period—Mussolini’s Italy and Hitler’s Germany—and, especially, on the more unorthodox case of Francoist Spain, the only Fascist regime that survived WWII and the Cold War era. Finally, we will survey the emergence of right wing populist parties and movements in the USA and contemporary Europe seeking to identify how they resemble and differ from the interwar fascist cases.

The course is divided into three parts. Part I studies the philosophical roots of fascist ideologies in the European reactionary tradition while contextualizing its emergence as a political ideology, socio-political movement and regime type under the specific historical conditions existing in interwar Europe. Part II studies the most salient policies and historical evolution of the fascist political regimes that came into being during the XXth century in Italy, Germany and, Spain. In part III, we will reflect on the rise of extreme right movements in USA and Europe, the continuing aesthetic attraction exerted by fascism in European and American politics and society and the lasting influence of fascism on certain democratic state system features such as interest representation (corporatism).

- Understanding of the philosophical roots of fascist ideology in European reactionary political philosophy.
- Learn about the specific historical circumstances under which Fascist regimes emerged in Europe during the interwar period.
- Study the most important, or paradigmatic, examples of historical fascism: Italy and Germany.
- Understand the historical and political evolution of the Franco regime and how

Attendance Policy

Every professor at NYU Madrid outlines the participation requirements governing her/his course. Class participation includes attendance and compliance with classroom etiquette (i.e. showing up on time, being attentive, no eating during class, no emailing during class, no cell phone use, and no disruptive behavior). A high score for class participation is awarded to those students who contribute to class discussion in a significant way.

PLEASE NOTE: If you are unable to attend class, you are required to email your professors directly. Academic work can only be made up if you have an official medical excuse (i.e. a doctor’s note).

Late Submission of Work

All late work will be penalized with 2 points per delayed day of submission.

Plagiarism Policy

At NYU, a commitment to excellence, fairness, honesty, and respect within and outside the classroom is essential to maintaining the integrity of our community.

Plagiarism: presenting others' work without adequate acknowledgement of its source, as though it were one’s own. Plagiarism is a form of fraud. We all stand on the shoulders of others, and we must give credit to the creators of the works that we incorporate into products that we call our own. Some examples of plagiarism:

- a sequence of words incorporated without quotation marks
- an unacknowledged passage paraphrased from another’s work
- the use of ideas, sound recordings, computer data or images created by others as though it were one’s own
- submitting evaluations of group members’ work for an assigned group project which misrepresent the work that was performed by another group member
- altering or forging academic documents, including but not limited to admissions materials, academic records, grade reports, add/drop forms, course registration forms, etc.
- using translation software.
