

Post Graduate Instrument Lease Program Policy
For all Residency and Fellowship Programs at NYUCD
March 31, 2008

NYUCD owns and maintains the inventory of instrumentation required for patient care services, and also provides the infrastructure (sterilization facilities and management resources) required to deliver instrumentation and equipment for patient care. Instrumentation and equipment is defined as ANY item which is utilized in patient care and must be sterilized or disinfected, or in the case of some equipment items have any associated component that must be sterilized or disinfected. Items specifically excluded include items such as cameras, computers, software, articulators (as examples) since these do not require sterilization or disinfection; for each program trainees will be advised each year of recommended and required items each trainee should purchase. Items purchased by a trainee are the personal property of the trainee and will remain in his or her possession upon graduation.

Trainees in the College's post-graduate fellowship and advanced education continuing education programs utilize these instruments, facility and human resources to provide patient care associated with their training program.

Based upon projections of instrument life-time usefulness, replacement and maintenance, the College will allocate to each trainee a Leasing Fee which will be paid each year the trainee remains in his or her training program. This fee represents a reasonable allocation for each trainee of a portion of the maintenance and replacement cost for inventory and infrastructure.

Under NO circumstance may any trainee bring into the clinical environment of NYUCD any personally-owned instruments for use in patient care. Non-compliance with this policy represents a serious breach of professional ethics and College policy and will be subject to review and disciplinary action by the College's Council on Ethics and Professionalism.

No resident shall advance to the next year of their multi-year program or be granted a certificate of completion of their program without meeting their Instrument Leasing obligation.
