

THE INTERNATIONAL CENTER FOR ADVANCED STUDIES
AT NEW YORK UNIVERSITY

PRESENTS A PUBLIC LECTURE ON NEOLIBERALISM:

SPEAKER: BERNHARD WALPEN, “THE PLAN TO END PLANNING”

COMMENTATOR: STEVEN LUKES

Thursday, April 28, 2005

6:00 pm

Jurow Auditorium

Silver Center, ground floor

100 Washington Square East

Moderated by Dieter Plehwe and Philip Mirowski

Dr. Bernhard Walpen, Romero Haus Luzern (Switzerland) has recently published the first critical history of the Mont Pèlerin Society, his “Die offenen Feinde und ihre Gesellschaft” (The Open Enemies and their Society). Together with conference organizer Dieter Plehwe and Gisela Neunhöffer, he has edited the forthcoming volume Neoliberal Hegemony: A Global Critique. London: Routledge 2005.

Steven Lukes is a Professor at New York University and a fellow of the British Academy. His published works include: The Category of the Person: Anthropology, Philosophy, History; Power; Marxism and Morality; Durkheim and the Law; Rationality and Relativism, Essays in Social Theory, Power: a Radical View, Emile Durkheim: His Life and Work. A Historical and Critical Study; Individualism

 A reception in Silverstein Lounge to follow

Funding for this lecture provided by the Humanities Council at
New York University

For information call 212.998.3770