FLAS- Academic Year	Applicants must plan to enroll full-time in a graduate degree program at NYU for 2009-10. Incoming applicants to NYU and currently enrolled NYU students are eligible to apply. Students from all NYU graduate degree programs in all NYU graduate schools are eligible to receive FLAS Fellowships. Applicants must be U.S. citizens or have permanent resident status.	Full-time enrollment in degree-programs that will include study of either Arabic, Hebrew, Pashto, Persian, Turkish or Urdu in either the US or abroad. Students must enroll in at least one language and one Middle East area studies course each semester	24 points of NYU tuition remission and a stipend of approximately $21,000. Duration: Academic Year	All applications must include a statement of purpose, a current transcript, and two letters of recommendation (preferably, one from a language instructor). Applicants to both summer and academic year submit only one set of supporting materials. Competitive priorities for Academic Year and Summer FLAS include 1) applicants who will achieve Advanced level proficiency before graduation and 2) master's level applicants who plan to pursue careers in public service. FLAS applicants should have scholarly and professional interests that focus on the Middle East and must demonstrate a strong commitment to the study of the Middle East in their applications.	Application is due in January for study beginning the following fall. Forms become available in November	http://www.ed.gov/about/offices/list/ope/ieops/index.html
FLAS- Summer	same as FLAS- Academic Year	Summer FLAS fellowships are available to attend selected intensive language programs in the US and abroad for the Less Commonly Taught Languages- Arabic, Hebrew, Pashto, Persian, Turkish or Urdu. Eligible programs must be the equivalent of one year of language study with a minimum of 140 classroom hours.	Summer fellowships cover the cost of full tuition plus a stipend of approximately $2,500. Duration: Summer term	Competitive priorities are the same for all FLAS Fellowships. Attendance at any particular summer program with a FLAS fellowship will be contingent upon the availability of matching funds beyond the $4,000 Department of Education tuition cap.	Applications for summer FLAS are also available in November and are due in January, for study in the following summer term.	http://www.ed.gov/about/offices/list/ope/ieops/index.html
FLAS- Research Abroad	NYU doctoral students who have completed all coursework may apply	The awards support extended research projects in the Middle East that incorporate language acquisition equivalent to one year of intensive study.	NYU maintenance of matriculation fees and a stipend of approximately $15,000. Duration: Fall and Spring semesters	Competitive priorities are the same for all FLAS Fellowships. Research abroad applications must include a one-page dissertation abstract and a one-page project proposal.	Applications are due in January for study beginning the following fall; application forms are available in November.	http://www.ed.gov/about/offices/list/ope/ieops/index.html
Fulbright- US students	US citizens currently enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate program at a U.S. college or university must apply through the Fulbright Program Adviser (FPA) on your campus. Applicants must have sufficient proficiency in the written and spoken language of the host country to communicate with the people and to carry out the proposed study. This is especially important for projects in the social sciences and the humanities. Have not resided or studied in the country to which they are applying for more than six months.	Most grants offered in the U.S. Student Program are Full grants. This includes all study and research awards, as well as English Teaching Assistantships.	Full grants include: Round-trip transportation to the host country; Maintenance for the academic year, based on living costs in the host country; Book and research allowance*; Medical Insurance; mid-term enrichment activities in many countries or world regions; Full or partial tuition, in most cases; Language or orientation programs, in some cases (see relevant Country Summary for details) *These grants provide some funding for research, books, and/or supplies. Grantees with projects that require extensive research support, in-country travel, study materials, or equipment should explore additional funding from other sources to supplement the Fulbright funding.	Find your Fulbright Program Advisor through the following website: http://us.fulbrightonline.org/program_universities_us.html	Each institution sets its own campus deadline for Fulbright applications, which will be earlier than the IIE deadline. Campus deadlines usually fall between mid-September and early October. Applications become available on May 1st of each year.	http://us.fulbrightonline.org/home.html
The Paul and Daisy Soros Fellowships for New Americans	Candidates must not be older than age 30 by the application deadline and must be a permanent resident, or a naturalized U.S. citizen, or a child of two parents who are both naturalized citizens. Candidates must either have a bachelor's degree or be in the final year of undergraduate study. Those who are already in graduate school may apply for fellowship support to continue that study.	The purpose of The Paul & Daisy Soros Fellowships for New Americans is to provide opportunities for continuing generations of able and accomplished New Americans to achieve leadership in their chosen fields. The Program is established in recognition of the contributions New Americans have made to American life and in gratitude for the opportunities the United States has afforded the donors and their family.	Each year the Fellow receives a maintenance grant of $20,000 (paid in two installments) and a tuition grant of one-half the tuition cost of the US graduate program attended by the Fellow (up to a maximum of $16,000 per academic year). The Fellowship Program pays the tuition grant directly to the institution. The size of the tuition grant depends on the cost of tuition at the institution the Fellow attends. Fees are not included in calculating tuition. If the program pursued is less than two years or the remainder of the of the Fellow's degree residence is less than two years, the Fellow receives the amount to cover the period required for the degree. Joint degree programs will be dealt with on a case-by-case basis. It is expected that the Fellow will complete the cost of tuition from such other sources as summer employment, public and private grant and loan programs for advanced education, or matching funds from the graduate institution the Fellow attends. The Fellow will be asked to inform the Program of other awards that she/he has been offered and may be asked to accept a total combined award	a completed online application form; two essays on specified topics; other supporting materials, e.g., articles, papers, portfolio (optional); 1-2 page resume; three reference letters, one of which is from a faculty member familiar with the candidate's current academic work, and another from someone familiar with the candidate in a work setting; a letter of endorsement from a college president, dean, or department chairperson; an official transcript from the undergraduate institution; documentation that the candidate meets, as of the application deadline, the definition of "New American"; scores from any graduate aptitude test (e.g., GMAT, MCAT, GRE, LSAT) required by programs to which the candidate has applied.	Application must be submitted online or postmarked by November 1, 2009	Paul and Daisy Fellowships For New Americans 400 West 59th Street New York, NY 10019 Phone: (212) 547-6926 Fax: (212) 548-4623 E-mail: pdSOROS_fellows@sorosny.org http://www.pdsoros.org

DAVIS-PUTTER SCHOLARSHIP FUND	Although US citizenship is not a consideration, applicants must live in the United States and plan to enroll an accredited program in the US in order to qualify. Early grantees have been active in the struggle against racism, sexism, homophobia, and other forms of oppression; building the movement for economic justice; and creating peace through international, anti-imperialist solidarity.	The Davis-Putter Scholarship Fund provides grants to students actively working for peace and justice. These need-based scholarships are awarded to those able to do academic work at the university level and who are part of the progressive movement on the campus and in the community. Early recipients worked for civil rights, against McCarthyism, and for peace in Vietnam. Recent grantees have been active in the struggle against racism, sexism, homophobia, and other forms of oppression; building the movement for economic justice; and creating peace through international anti-imperialist solidarity.	The maximum grant is $8,000 and may be considerably smaller depending on the applicant's circumstances and the amount of funding available.		Jan-09	www.davisputter.org

Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation	Only individuals who are United States citizens at the time of application will be considered. Applicants must have a minimum undergraduate grade point average of 3.2 or higher on a 4.0 scale. At the time of application, candidates must be seeking admission to graduate school for the following academic year. Winners are expected to enroll in a two-year, full-time master's degree program in either public policy, international affairs, or public administration, or in an academic field such as business, economics, political science, sociology, or foreign languages (U.S. graduate institutions only). A cumulative grade point average of 3.2 or higher on a 4.0 scale must be maintained throughout participation in the program.	The goal of the fellowship program is to attract outstanding students who enroll in two-year master's degree programs in public policy, international affairs, public administration, or academic fields such as business, economics, political science, sociology, or foreign languages, who represent all ethnic, racial and social backgrounds and who have an interest in pursuing a Foreign Service career in the U.S. Department of State. The program develops a source of trained men and women who will represent the skill needs of the Department and who are dedicated to representing America's interests abroad.	The fellowship award includes tuition, room, board, and mandatory fees during the first and second year of graduate school. Each year's award also includes reimbursement for books and for travel (one round trip per academic year, up to a set maximum amount).	Each successful candidate is obligated to a minimum of three years' service in an appointment as a Foreign Service officer. Candidates who do not successfully complete the program and Foreign Service entry requirements may be subject to a reimbursement obligation to the Department of State.		http://www.woodrow.org/fellowships/foreign_affairs/pickering_grad/index.php Contact Sylvia.Sheridan.Assistant.Director_at_pickeringfat@woodrow.org
