Shock Climax as Man Hunt Ends

A surprising shock climax is provided in the final reel of "Born to Battle", the new Steiner Western, starring Tom Tyler, which comes to the Theatre on

This occurs when Tom, first made prisoner as a suspect in a murder of which he is entirely innocent, persuades his guard to halt on the way to jail, and return to the ranch where he knows rustlers are planning a cattle raid. The rustlers are heavily superior in number to Tom and his aids, but Betty Powell, Tom's sweetheart, mounted and rides at a mad gallop to town to summon the sheriff and his posse. A fierce battle ensues between the outlaws and their pursuers, but the tide turns against the former just as the sheriff's force comes into action. This is one of the highlight sequences of an open-air melodrama remarkable for swift, continuous action, keen-edged suspense, and exploitation of the dare devil stunts for which Tyler is famous.
