ACE PRODUCER

An accident in 1912 was responsible for Spencer Bennett, director of Republic's current serial, "Ghost Riders of the West" (formerly "The Phantom Rider") becoming a director. The 12- chapter serial drama opened... and will continue... at the Theatre.

When Spencer was employed as a stunt man he was required to run through fire. He wore an asbestos suit soaked in gasoline and a mask, but the suit proved to be porous. The gasoline got under his mask, and the result landed Bennett in a sanitarium for a six months stay.
