Robert F. Wagner School of Public Service
Master of Public Administration, May 2008

Independent Consultant

Chris Brown continues to apply his commitment to social entrepreneurship as a consultant to several organizations. Now living in the Washington D.C. metro area, he sees an opportunity to assist in the capacity-building efforts of social entrepreneurs while working with political candidates who seek to leverage social entrepreneurship as a means of effective policy making.

Currently, his projects include program development of a business incubator program, fundraising for a public arts initiative, and advocacy for youth development organizations. Additionally, he has been campaigning for a social entrepreneur, Tom Perriello, who is running for Congress in Virginia's 5th District. Chris' plans are to work with institutions that have a commitment to serving the needs of social entrepreneurs from all sectors through advocacy, financing, networking and technical assistance.
