Please read carefully before answering last question:

The second-year curriculum focuses on the student's ability to successfully engage in the process of biopsychosocial assessment and treatment. It is expected that the student demonstrate an ability to integrate academic theory with practice with some degree of consistency and individuation in work with individuals, families, and groups; utilize an appropriate systems perspective in dealing with client transactions; and engage support agency service delivery systems as appropriate.

Given this format, do you recommend this applicant for second-year graduate study, i.e., advanced standing?

Yes  No
