

NOW HIRING: BROADCAST GRAPHICS DESIGNER
(2012: student position)

Are you an After Effects or Flash Animation specialist? Do you want to work in a fun creative environment – right here on-campus?
Then you should be working at NYU-TV!

JOB: Student position for graphics designer to create broadcast graphics and animations for NYU-TV's University Channel. Design broadcast graphics, web, and promotional materials.

HOURS: Part-time student employment (10 -20 flexible). Now hiring. Must be available for at least 3 full semesters (through May 2013).

SALARY: Based on experience

DESCRIPTION: NYU-TV is the university's closed-circuit cable television network. The primary responsibility will be to create animations to promote programming themes for air on NYU-TV's University Channel. Your work will be highly visible to the campus population, as NYU-TV is seen in residence halls, public spaces, and academic offices throughout the campus.

You'll be part of a team of designers, working together to build NYU-TV's television and web presence. This is a great opportunity to work across media platforms – designing for broadcast television and the web – and to contribute to establishing the brand identity for NYU-TV.

Other responsibilities may include designing broadcast graphics for videos or video streaming projects; creating promotional materials for print, and researching new technologies and software to improve the visual presentation of NYU-TV.

SKILL REQUIREMENTS:

Must have strong graphic design and/or art background.
Proficiency using After Effects and/or Flash, Motion (beginner to intermediate), PhotoShop, Illustrator.
Excellent ability to work across multiple platforms.
Strong attention to detail necessary.
Experience designing graphics for video/TV also valuable.

BONUS SKILLS:

Proficiency with 3D effects software (Maya, Autodesk Smoke, etc.)
Experience with web design a plus.
Experience with Final Cut Pro, Quicktime, and DVD authoring a plus.
