APPLICATION MATERIALS: An international exchange application must include a student data form, academic planning form, official NYU transcript, statement of purpose, and two letters of academic recommendation. Additional required materials may vary by partner university. The list of required materials as well as eligibility requirements are listed on the international exchange website.

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE: Please submit a statement of purpose as part of the International Exchange Program application. You may respond to the prompt included in the partner university's application. If the application does not offer a prompt, you may use the following questions to write a 1-2 page detailed proposal explaining your educational and personal reasons for choosing the international exchange partner university:

Why is participating in an exchange program important to you? How would this international exchange partner university complement your academic experience to date? What are your expectations for personal, academic, and professional growth through International Exchange?

If you are not selected for the International Exchange Program, we are happy to review you for an alternate NYU Global Programs study away opportunity. Please indicate your second and/or third choice location and area of academic interest here.

While it is important that you select valid alternate locations - considering course offerings and your personal academic goals while abroad - please know that by listing alternates here, you will not in any way negatively impact your international exchange application review.
