Expand your awareness of the multifaceted nature of nutrition issues at NYU Accra through the Steinhardt School of Culture, Education, and Human Development’s Department of Nutrition and Food Studies. As a nutrition and food studies student, you can learn about the body’s nutritional requirements during different life stages and how globalization affects the food habits and nutrition transition of Africa. Students embark on field visits to better understand nutritional challenges from a developing country’s perspective.
NYU ACCRA
Learn about food and nutrition in the context of West Africa. Enroll in major-related courses at NYU Accra that will allow you to integrate with the city and local culture. You may also enroll in up to two courses at the University of Ghana-Legon, where you will study alongside top local college students.

NUTRITION AND FOOD STUDIES COURSES
▶ Introduction to Global Issues: The African Perspective (spring semester)
▶ Nutrition and the Life Cycle (fall semester)

ADDITIONAL OPPORTUNITIES
Nutrition and food studies students may also consider the Food, Culture, and Globalization course (two credits) offered at NYU Florence and NYU London that investigates the current transformations in food systems and the local culture due to globalization.

STUDENT LIFE
On-site staff provide support for you during your time abroad. Orientation, trips, student clubs, and language exchanges throughout the semester help you connect with your host culture. Housing varies by location and is guaranteed to all students.
