The Department of Teaching and Learning at the Steinhardt School of Culture, Education, and Human Development prepares prospective teachers to recognize the capacities, strengths, and needs of children and their families in urban settings. As a student in the teacher education programs, you can spend the spring semester at NYU Accra or NYU London, where you can complete required courses in human development to stay on track with your degree requirements in addition to taking core requirements and liberal arts electives. While abroad, you will experience the teaching styles of Ghanaian and British classrooms firsthand through weekly observations in local schools. You can also consult your academic adviser about opportunities to spend a semester taking core and liberal arts courses at one of NYU’s many other global locations.
NYU ACCRA

While studying at NYU Accra, you’ll become familiar with the Ghanaian education system through weekly observations in local schools, explore a diverse West African culture through location-focused courses, and learn about educational policy and international education styles firsthand. You’ll be able to take your required human development courses, designed to expand your knowledge of the psychological development of students in your area of focus, as well as a variety of electives and core courses. You may also enroll in up to two courses at the University of Ghana-Legon, where you will study alongside top local college students.

TEACHER EDUCATION COURSES
▶ Human Development I
▶ Human Development II: Application for Childhood Educators
▶ Human Development II: Application for Early Childhood Educators
▶ Human Development II: Early Adolescents and Adolescents

NYU LONDON

The teacher education courses at NYU London offer you the chance to learn about international education and explore the challenges teachers and students face daily in urban schools. You’ll complete at least 25 hours of fieldwork in local schools and learn how the British education system differs from its US counterpart. You’ll be able to take your required human development courses, designed to expand your knowledge of the psychological development of students in your area of focus, as well as a variety of electives and core courses.

TEACHER EDUCATION COURSES
▶ Human Development I
▶ Human Development II: Application for Childhood Educators
▶ Human Development II: Application for Early Childhood Educators
▶ Human Development II: Early Adolescents and Adolescents

STUDENT LIFE
On-site staff provide support for you during your time abroad. Orientation, trips, student clubs, and language exchanges throughout the semester help you connect with your host culture. Housing varies by location and is guaranteed to all students.

HOW TO APPLY
For more detailed information, including a complete list of current course offerings and application guidelines, visit the NYU Office of Global Programs website at nyu.edu/global-programs. Information about Summer Session and January Term programs abroad can be found at nyu.edu/summer and nyu.edu/january. Financial aid and scholarships are available to all NYU students.

FOR MORE INFORMATION
Study Away Process
Office of Global Programs
383 Lafayette Street, 4th Floor
New York, NY 10003-7011
global.programs@nyu.edu
212-998-4433

Academics
Department of Teaching and Learning
239 Greene Street, 6th Floor
New York, NY 10003-6674
teachlearn.advice@nyu.edu
212-998-5460

nyu.edu/global-programs

Note: In Accra and London, Human Development I runs for the first seven weeks of the spring semester, followed by Human Development II. All sections of Human Development II will meet together for class sessions, but classroom observations and assignments are differentiated.

Course offerings at all global locations are subject to change and can vary by semester. Not all course options are available to all students. Refer to nyu.edu/global-programs for the most up-to-date information.