With so many helpful resources, it’s a call you won’t want to miss.

It may seem unusual, but the next time your phone’s caller ID reads “UnitedHealthcare,” there’s a good chance it’s an offer to connect you with information to help you manage or improve your health.

These are not sales calls; no one will try to sell you anything. Rather, the calls are used to extend invitations to members who have been identified as those who could benefit from a conversation with a nurse. Reasons for these calls can include:

Welcome Home
A Care Coordination nurse may call after you return home from a hospital stay to help confirm you have after-care instructions, medication, medical equipment or other needs.

Disease Management
Our nursing staff receives referrals for patients who have certain medical conditions such as diabetes or coronary artery disease. Based on this information you may get a call to help connect you to tools and resources that help you manage your health.

Healthy Pregnancy
When you find out you are pregnant, a nurse from our Healthy Pregnancy program will reach out to you to offer educational services and health resources.

Note about your privacy: We are dedicated to safeguarding your privacy. UnitedHealthcare does not share your name or any other identifying information. Your conversations will remain confidential.
