Dear NYU Parent,

We expect that you are probably beginning to feel anxious and/or excited about the coming months as you prepare for your student's first days at NYU. It's a major step for many students as they move into young adulthood, and an equally big step for you as a parent. Over the past month, your student should have received a number of communications entitled “Next Stop NYU” which we hope have been shared with you. Digital copies are also available online at www.nyu.edu/nextstop should you like to refer back to them.

The staff at the Student Resource Center understands your desire to be there to guide your student. Our goal is to keep you informed of ways to help your student navigate available resources that will assist them with their new responsibilities, as well as help them in their development into young adulthood. We see the parent's role to be one of support, helping your student to do for themselves, and when they can't, knowing where to direct them for assistance.

We hope you will take advantage of the information in this document, as well as on the Parent Resources website (www.nyu.edu/parents) to stay connected to a variety of resources, including:

- Important dates and deadlines
- A directory of commonly requested offices and websites
- Parent and University-wide publications
- How to join the Parent email list so that you will receive our monthly Parent e-Newsletter
- Information about events for parents on Welcome Day and Parents Day

We look forward to meeting you on Sunday, August 28 -- NYU Welcome Day and Residence Hall Move-In Day where you are also invited to attend a short “Parent Welcome” program. Congratulations on your student’s acceptance and welcome to the NYU Community!

David Vogelsang
Executive Director
