Gallatin School of Individualized Study

(first-year population: ~350)
The Gallatin School of Individualized Study is a small, interdisciplinary liberal arts college within NYU. Gallatin students develop an integrated, multidisciplinary program of study and take approximately half of their courses in the various schools of NYU, completing the balance through Gallatin's seminars as well as independent studies and internships. Through this innovative approach, Gallatin students create programs that reflect their intellectual interests and professional goals.
