STORY

While on an expedition in search of new radium fields, Dr. Forrest (Forrest Taylor), inventor of the Radiatomic Power Transmitter, a device designed to revolutionize the traffic of the world by supplying power from widely separated points, disappeared with his aide.

His daughter, Claire (Linda Stirling), in searching for him, enlists the aid of Lance Reardon (Richard Bailey), famous criminologist. From the dust found on the clothing of a murdered man known to have been on the expedition, Lance learns that the professor was on Mystery Island, a tiny dot of land in the Pacific.

Claire and Lance go there, to find the island is owned by four men, all descendants of a Captain Mephisto (Roy Barcroft), who governed the island more than two hundred years before. Each of the men admits Dr. Forrest was on the island, and each pledges aid in finding him, but Claire and Lance soon learn that one of the owners is their enemy and is the person holding Dr. Forrest prisoner.

By use of a strange device known as the "Transformation Chair," one of the men is able to change the molecular constructions of the blood, and can become at will, the exact counterpart of the original Captain Mephisto. As the mysterious and sinister Captain, he circumvents at every turn, the efforts of Claire and Lance to locate Dr. Forrest, and he hopes to gain control of the Power Transmitter himself.

After many daring and exciting adventures, Claire and Lance learn the identity of Captain Mephisto in a surprise ending which almost constitutes a perfect murder.

Dr. Forrest is rescued, and is reunited with his daughter. The Power Transmitter is saved, and the mystery of the strange island is solved.
