Michigan Slavic Publications is a non-profit organization associated with the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures of the University of Michigan. Its goal is to publish titles which substantially aid the study and teaching of Slavic and East European languages and cultures. The present volume, based on a conference held at New York University, New York, in May 2015, continues a series of conference proceedings devoted to formal approaches to Slavic linguistics.

Michigan Slavic Materials, 62

Series editor
Jindrich Toman
ptydepe@umich.edu
Annual Workshop on Formal Approaches to Slavic Linguistics

The NYU Meeting 2015

edited by
Yohei Oseki
Masha Esipova
Stephanie Harves

Michigan Slavic Publications
Ann Arbor 2017
Preface

The present volume consists of 21 peer-reviewed, revised, and edited versions of papers presented at the twenty-fourth annual meeting of Formal Approaches to Slavic Linguistics, held at New York University May 7th – 10th, 2015. FASL 24 was organized and sponsored by the Department of Linguistics and the Division of Arts and Science at New York University. We were fortunate to host a one-day workshop on Slavic Morphology on May 7th, thanks to a grant from the National Science Foundation (co-PIs Maria Gouskova and Stephanie Harves). 16 papers from the main session were submitted to the current volume, along with 5 papers from the workshop on Slavic Morphology. We are grateful to our invited plenary speakers who presented at the morphology workshop and the main sessions: John Bailyn (Stony Brook University), Christina Bethin (Stony Brook University), Vera Gribanova (Stanford University), Katya Pertsova (UNC Chapel Hill), Maria Polinsky (Harvard University), and Ora Matushansky (CNRS Paris VIII).

Several presenters at the conference opted not to submit papers to this volume, but we are nevertheless grateful for their presentations. A complete list of presenters can be found on the official conference program online: https://www.nyu.edu/projects/fasl24/program.shtml.

The organizing committee for the conference and workshop was led by NYU graduate students Sonia Kasyanenko and Yohei Oseki, in conjunction with Professors Maria Gouskova and Stephanie Harves. Other members of the graduate student organizing committee were: Suzy Ahn, Isaac Bleaman, Daniel Duncan, Masha Esipova, Itamar Kastner, Maria Kouneli, Daniel Szeredi, Dunja Veselinović, Adina Williams, and Vera Žu. We are extremely grateful to the committee at large for putting together an extraordinarily smooth and successful conference.

As always, we owe our reviewers a great deal of thanks, both for reviewing abstracts as well as reviewing submitted papers. Thank you, Michael Becker, Petr Biskup, Isaac Bleaman, Lev Blumenfeld, Wayles

Finally, we thank Jindřich Toman and Michigan Slavic Publications for handling the final stages of production in order to publish this volume.

The Editors,

Yohei Oseki
Masha Esipova
Stephanie Harves
CONTENTS

Svitlana Antonyuk
Russian Scope Freezing: Novel Evidence and Account 1

John Frederick Bailyn
Bulgarian Superiority and Minimalist Movement Theory 27

Jitka Bartošová and Ivona Kučerová
Instrumental Situations: On Case Marking in Copular Clauses in Czech 50

Christina Y. Bethin
Surface Phonotactics in Morphology: Ongoing Change in the Belarusian Noun Declension 71

Lena Borise
Prominence Redistribution in the Aŭčiuki Dialect of Belarusian 94

Pavel Caha
Three Kinds of ‘Homogeneous’ Patterns of Czech Numerals: A Phrasal Spell Out Account 110

Guillaume Enguehard
A CVCV Account of the Russian ɔ/a Alternation 131

Julie Goncharov
Samyj in Fragment Answers 156

Lena Groeben, Radek Šimík and Frank Kügler
Stress Shift, Focus, and Givenness in Czech 180

Snejana Iovtcheva and Despina Oikonomou
Island Obviation in Contrastive Fragment Answers: Evidence from Bulgarian Li-Questions 200

Jiri Kaspar
Topicalisation in Coordination under Subordination 220
Varvara Magomedova and Natalia Slioussar
Stem-final Consonant Mutations in Modern Russian 239

Andreas Pankau
The Matching Analysis of Relative Clauses: Evidence form Upper Sorbian 260

Asya Pereltsvaig
On Slavic-influenced Syntactic Changes in Yiddish: A Parametric Account 281

Katya Pertsova and Julia Kuznetsova
Experimental Evidence for Lexical Conservatism in Russian: Defective Verbs Revisited 301

Marta Ruda
Rich Agreement and Dropping Patterns: pro-Drop, Agreement Drop, No Drop 321

Adrian Stegovec
Personality Disorders: The PCC and Two Kinds of Clitic Reordering in Slovenian 342

Natalia Slioussar, Anya Stetsenko and Tatiana Matyushkina
Producing Case Errors in Russian 363

Adam Szczegielniak
Phase by Phase Computation of Prominence in Ellipsis and PP-stranding Island Alleviation 380

Aida Talić
Adverbial Left-Branch Extraction and the Structure of AP in Slavic 399

Mary Ann Walter
Frequency Distributions as Faithfulness Targets: Or, Why Bulgarians Feminized Turkish Nouns 419