Course Description:
This course studies the different kinds of institutions that collect and manage moving image and other cultural material: museums of art, natural history, and motion pictures; libraries, archives, and historical societies; corporate institutions. It compares and contrasts these types of institution to reveal how they differ from one another. It looks, for example, at how different types of institution may handle similar material in significantly different ways (from what they acquire, to how they describe it, to how they display or preserve it). The course examines theories of collecting, the history of cultural heritage institutions, and the organizational structures of institutions that house collections (including trends in staffing and the roles of individual departments), and their respective missions and operational ethics. The class will visit a variety of local cultural organizations, and will have working professionals talk about their organizations and duties. The course is required for students in the MA Program in Moving Image Archiving and Preservation, but we welcome students from other Programs.

Student requirements:
- an observational study of two cultural institutions for in-class presentation (20%);
- a term project on a subject you must negotiate with the instructor, to be presented in class at the end of the semester—both as an oral presentation and written up (35%)
- At least 4 times during the semester you must bring in to class a current news article related to cultural institutions, and orally explain this to the rest of the class. Topics might include private collectors, contested objects, hirings/firings, cultural institution expansions, etc. You should aim to present 2 of these before midterm, and the other 2 by the end of the semester (10%).
- class attendance, keeping up with the readings, presenting readings, participation in class discussion, including during field trips (25%).
- contribute at least 2 observations to the class discussion board on Blackboard within the 2 weeks following the fieldtrip to MMI and AMNH (at least 1 within the first week after the trip). MIAP students will also have to report back from their visit to the National Audiovisual Conservation Center in Culpeper. (10%).

No incompletes are accepted for this class.

NB: The readings and topics on this syllabus may be added to, and change during the semester. Students are responsible for following such changes. In addition, due to variations in the lengths of discussion, questions, and visual materials, we may not actually discuss all the readings listed in the syllabus. However, they are important and their content supports the class assignments.
Readings: Selected readings will be posted on Blackboard. Articles from 2003 on from The Moving Image are available in electronic form through Project Muse (enter via NYU Libraries). Electronic versions of other journals may be available there as well.

Recommended Texts:

3) Paolo Cherchi Usai, David Francis, Alexander Horwath, Michael Loebenstein (Eds.), Film Curatorship: Archives, Museums, and the Digital Marketplace (London: Wallflower Press, 2008). (a copy will also be available in the Film Study Center)

4) Penelope Houston, Keepers of the Frame: the Film Archives (British Film Institute: London, 1994) (frontal matter until page 77)

6) Film History 18:3 (2006), Special Issue on Film Museums (available online as an NYU Libraries resource—through NYU Home)

8) Roger Smither and Catherine A. Surowiec, eds This Film is Dangerous: A Celebration of Nitrate Film (FIAF: Brussels, 2002)

Plagiarism:

Plagiarism is the presentation of somebody else’s work as your own. This is a very serious fault, and against NYU rules, whether it is unintended (e.g. occurs through poor citations and confusion about how to reference somebody else’s scholarship), or derives from out and out copying (such as downloading essays from the internet). Plagiarism includes using portions of a previously published work in a paper without citing the source, submitting a paper written for another course, submitting a paper written by someone else, and using the ideas of someone else without attribution. Plagiarism is unacceptable in this class and is punished severely. Please ask for help, by email or in person, if you are unclear as to how to cite others’ work. Anybody who is caught plagiarizing will fail the course and be subject to disciplinary action through the university.
Class 1) Tuesday 25 January: Memory Organizations

- Introductions to Course and to individuals
- Current News
- Comparative analysis of different types of institution.
- What institutions collect moving images?
- How varied are the histories of cultural institutions?
- How do their histories shape what an institution collects, how they organize their collection, and how they provide access to it?
- Western civilization has relied heavily on surviving written accounts to interpret the past. How has that affected how we see various groups that didn't have the capability to create written accounts, or to make sure that those accounts persist over time? Can we do more justice to those groups by studying artifacts rather than written accounts? Or to those who rely on oral traditions to tell their stories?
- Museums and Libraries assert systematic organizations upon their works, and to some degree, all knowledge. What effects does this have outside the walls of these institutions? Are there both positive and negative effects?
- Bibliothèque Nationale de France
